How to Impress Ukrainian Singles

Levels of relationship do not vary even among Ukrainian singles. There's the dating stage where you go on informal dates and get to know each other better. Then next is the romantic period where you become more attached and intimate to each other. Then perhaps, after the intimate stage, you would wish to be engaged and get married, right? Nope. Amongst Ukrainian families, you must know the family of the woman first before you can start planning the engagement and wedding.

Most European women value their families beyond anything else, so it's important to make an effort to understand them. This is even more true when it comes to Ukrainian singles. Meeting the whole family is a big deal to them so it has to be ideal.

It does sound a bit demanding, especially if you're a foreigner but don't worry because here are a handful of tips for you to take into account before meeting your sweetheart's parents.

Tip #1: Your appearance will matter

Ukrainian women like when their partners wear smart and stylish clothes. The same goes for their parents. Although they may not be alarmed when you pair different colours in one outfit, what they will be more anxious about is whether you're a "fit" enough man for their daughter. Be sure that you look good, decent, and confident in how you look like. Shave if necessary.

Tip #2: Bring presents

Bringing gifts is a culture in Ukraine. One great gift will be an elegant bouquet of flowers for your partner's mom to win her over. It's a nice gesture and you'd have to admit that any woman will cherish a bouquet of flowers.

You may offer her father a bottle of red or white wine. Her dad will definitely enjoy such kind gesture and may even ask you to join him for a few drinks.

Tip #3: Be expressive

Parents will always feel proud if others tell them that they did a great job in raising their kids or daughter. You should express this politely. Give compliments and don't be shy to convey your feelings for their daughter. This just demonstrates how well you know their daughter and how sincere your intentions and interests are.

Tip #4: Work on your natural charm

Don't worry if you don't have appeal because all you have to do to be charming is be interested in other people. That's it! Just be confident and speak logically all throughout your date. Never be quiet, offer compliments, share stories, offer help, etc. If you can do that, they will most certainly love you.

Last but not least

Remember to be yourself. You do not need to exaggerate things. If you are nice and your intents are clear, every parent will see that and will grant you their love and full support.
